Blog Comment/Content Guidelines

We welcome your participation in blog comment threads. Yoga Alliance Australia is a Blog of Yoga incorporating diverse topics on holistic disciplines. Its articles are peer-reviewed by Yoga Alliance Australia board of directors. In consonance with the spiritual perspective from which the concept and practice of Yoga arises, Yoga Alliance Australia maintains high ethical standards and is not influenced by any commercial overtures.

Reporting standards

Authors of reports of original Yoga, Meditation, Pranayamas and Holistic therapies research, case studies and statistics should present an accurate account of the work performed as well as an objective discussion of its significance. Underlying data should be represented accurately in the paper. A paper should contain sufficient detail and references to permit others to replicate the work. Review and professional publication articles should also be accurate and objective.

Data access and retention

Authors may be asked to provide the raw data (also known as primary data) is a term for data collected from a source in connection with a paper for editorial review.

Originality and plagiarism

The authors should ensure that they have written entirely original works, and if the authors have used the work and/or words of others; that this has been appropriately cited or quoted. Plagiarism in all its forms constitutes unethical publishing behaviour and is unacceptable.

Multiple, redundant or concurrent publication

An author should not in general publish manuscripts describing essentially the same research, subject or topic in more than one blog, journal or primary publication across the internet.

Acknowledgement of sources

Proper acknowledgment of the work of others must always be given. Information obtained privately, as in conversation, correspondence, or discussion with third parties, must not be used or reported without explicit, written permission from the source.

Authorship of the paper

Authorship should be limited to those who have made a significant contribution to the conception, design, execution, or interpretation of the reported study, subject topic. All those who have made significant contributions should be listed as co-authors. Where there are others who have participated in certain substantive aspects of the project, they should be acknowledged or listed as contributors. The corresponding author should ensure that all co-authors have seen and approved the final version of the paper and have agreed to its submission for publication.

Involvement and cooperation in investigations

An editor should take reasonably responsive measures when ethical complaints have been presented concerning a submitted manuscript or published paper, in conjunction with the publisher. Such measures will generally include contacting the author of the manuscript or paper and giving due consideration of the respective complaint or claims made, but may also include further communications to the relevant institutions and research bodies, and if the complaint is upheld, the publication of a correction, retraction, expression of concern, or other note, as may be relevant.
